

Robert AJ Moody

AJ is a military brat who was born in Bitburg, Germany and has lived in 6 different states (Nebraska, Texas, Pennsylvania, Hawaii, Colorado, and Maryland). He attended the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind, which was his very first Deaf school, from 2007-2010. He transferred to the Maryland School for the Deaf and graduated, as the Salutatorian, in 2012. He was a scholar-athlete, maintaining a 3.5 GPA or above, and fully participating at the varsity level in football, basketball, wrestling and track at both schools.

AJ attended Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colorado to study Exercise Science Physiology. He transferred to Metropolitan State University of Denver (MSU-Denver) in Denver, CO and graduated in December 2017 with a bachelor's degree in Black Leadership & Social Ventures. His passion is business and teaching others.

AJ is the co-owner of MoodyWorks32 which offers Emergency Preparedness and Universal Design consulting. He lives in two worlds; the Deaf and hearing world most of his friends are Deaf and all of his family members are hearing. He has experienced many struggles in both worlds which is why he is passionate about Universal Design for individuals with access and functional needs. Universal Design can be used to solve so many issues. His ultimate goal is to make day-to-day challenges accessible for everyone and to make sure communication and access is efficient and effective.

Many people have heard about Universal Design, but may not know the many ways it can be applied and the full scope of benefits for people with disabilities and for people with no disabilities. Example: The push button that open the doors is a universal design because it was designed for individuals with mobility challenges but it benefits others who may be carrying big loads, parents with baby strollers, etc. My duty as Universal Design Consultant is to think outside the box and enhance your business or organization to allow access for everyone and to develop customer loyalty.
